CATALOG DESCRIPTION

The course is built on a number of controversial issues in the field of contemporary global politics. Students are expected to read and think about these controversial issues and that they are encouraged to put forward their own points of view in an atmosphere of discussion and debate in the class.

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

- To provide students with an introduction to International Relations as a discipline;
- To equip them with an appreciation of the complexity and inter-relatedness of global phenomena;
- To enable them to understand different points of view, including those which they do not share; and to help them develop speaking and advocacy skills.
- To introduce students of international relations to the complexities of multifunctional organizational problems.
- To actively involve students in the exploration of current ideas, issues, problems and techniques associated with the international relations issues and apply a focus on the total organization from a global perspective.
- To familiarize students with the current literature, concepts, and theories of International Relations
- To improve and sharpen report writing and oral presentation skills.

GENERAL LEARNING OUTCOMES

On successful completion of this course, students will have developed knowledge and understanding of:

- the nature of international relations and its changing environment and how decision makers respond to these challenges

COURSE POLICIES

- Attendance is compulsory by school regulations. Students are strongly advised not to miss lecture hours since success is closely related with attendance. Student attendance is monitored and assessed by the course instructor. As per Faculty Council Decision 2018-2019/11, students who fail to attend the minimum required number of classes will be considered unsuccessful in the course and receive an NG (No Grade) grade. If you have any special circumstances or problems that affect your class attendance, inform your instructor. Your special circumstances or problems will be assessed by the course instructor.
- Exams will include questions from assigned readings as described in this Course Outline.
- You will be given one midterm exam during the midterm exam period and a final examination at the end of the semester.
- Make-up Policy:* You are expected to take the exams on the days at which they are given. Mid-Term and Final Make-up Examinations options will be available only to those students who have an extenuating circumstance. These students should submit their reasons in the form of a formal letter within 3 days after examination e.g. the submission of a valid medical report.
- Mobile phones should be turned off during the class meetings, examinations, and quizzes.

Important note:

Academic Honesty: Plagiarism will not be tolerated under any circumstances. Plagiarism is intentionally failing to give credit sources used in writing regardless of whether they are published or unpublished. Plagiarism and any kind of cheating in exams is a disciplinary offence and will be dealt with accordingly. Note that "CUT AND PASTE" IS A FORM OF PLAGIARISM.
